Mohn Leads Battle For Union Boss

Three Foes Claim More Backing, Try To Form Coalition

By JIM THOMASSON
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (U)—Three opponents battled desperately today to stem a steamroller which appeared to be sweeping James R. Hoffa of Detroit toward the presidency of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

In a swirling, slambang battle for delegate votes, Hoffa picked up endorsements from the New England Conference, the Eastern Conference and the Los Angeles Joint Council of Teamsters in his campaign to succeed retiring President Dave Beck.

International Vice President Elmer Mohn, formerly of Los Angeles and now Beck's administrative assistant, made his first public move in the massive battle for power as he spearheaded the drive to win the Los Angeles delegates over to the Midwest Teamster boss.

Eisenhower Stands Pat, Troops Stay

Demands Stronger Statement From Faubus As 'Price'

WASHINGTON (U)—President Eisenhower held firmly today to a demand for a stronger stand by Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus as the price of withdrawing federal troops from Little Rock.

High hopes for settlement of the monthlong federal-state controversy over integration of Little Rock's Central High School collapsed last night in what might be a disagreement over words—or could be a dispute over intentions.

A settlement plan was worked out yesterday at a lengthy conference between Eisenhower and a four-man committee from the Southern Governors' Conference.

Called For Declaration

It called for a declaration from Faubus that he would not obstruct orders of the federal courts which have ordered school integration, and would maintain law and order in Little Rock. The President in turn promised to return the federalized Arkansas National Guard to state control and to withdraw federal troops "as soon as practicable."

The governors' committee said Faubus had agreed to the plan, and the Arkansas governor later issued his own statement in Little Rock.

But hours later Eisenhower said Faubus' statement "does not constitute in my opinion the assurance that he intends to use his full powers as governor to prevent the obstruction of the orders of the United States District Court."

Under the circumstances the President of the United States has no recourse at the present time except to maintain federal surveillance of the situation.

Two of the four governors who met with Eisenhower expressed confidence the dispute can be settled quickly. Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina and Gov. Frank G. Clement of Tennessee spoke on an NBC telecast after Eisenhower's rejection of the plan.

Two other conferees, Florida's Gov. Leroy Collins and Maryland's Gov. Theodore McKeldin, joined them in saying Faubus had changed slightly the statement they said had previously been agreed upon.

Based On Few Words

Apparently the White House objection was based at least in part on a couple of words in Faubus' statement.

Faubus said at Little Rock "I now declare that upon withdrawal of federal troops, I will again assume full responsibility, in cooperation with local authorities, for the maintenance of law and order, and that the orders of the federal courts will not be obstructed by me."

Gov. Hodges said in the television interview that Faubus had added the words "by me" to the agreed statement. He said he believed Faubus had done so unwittingly, but that the added words may have caused the White House objection. Clement agreed.

Guard Unit Takes Them Into School

NAACP Head Says Group Target Of Intimidation Acts

BULLETIN
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (U)—Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus declared today he is "standing pat" on his statement of last night promising cooperation with the federal government in handling the Little Rock school integration case despite President Eisenhower's rejection of it.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (U)—Nine Negro students were greeted with shouts and hoots today at Central High School but they entered the school without any disorder. It was the eighth day of troop-enforced integration.

Federalized Arkansas National Guardsmen were back on duty at the big high school for the second day in a row. They relieved regulars of the 101st Airborne Division yesterday.

For several days the six Negro girls and three boys have used the main entrance to Central High, making their way each morning through a mass of between 75 to 150 white students.

Jeered By White Students

As the Negroes left a National Guard station wagon this morning, shouts and hooting arose from white students.

The Negroes, unescorted, took a sidewalk leading to their left and headed for a side entrance. When the white students noticed this, the jeering grew in volume and there were cries of "chicken!" However, the Negroes got into the school without any disorder.

Mrs. L.C. Bates, state president of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, made a rare appearance in the high school area, driving by to see if the Negro students had gotten safely inside the school.

Mrs. Bates said yesterday that the nine Negroes were subjected inside the school to what she described as organized intimidation by the white students. Mrs. Bates said objects were thrown at the Negroes by the other students.

Reaction In City Varied

Reaction in this Southern city to President Eisenhower's offer of compromise and his subsequent announcement that federal troops would remain varied widely. It ranged from approval by a Negro leader to a comment that Eisenhower could do nothing else but backtrack under the circumstances, and also drew pledges from

Ike's Huge Budget Growing Bigger

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's record peacetime budget has grown a bit bigger—72 billion dollars—but the administration hopes to reduce spending for this year up by 200 million dollars from Eisenhower's January estimate, and the prospective surplus down by 300 million dollars to 1 1/2 billions.

Those figures, covering the 1957 fiscal year that started July 1, would not justify tax reduction. Budget Director Perovich F. Brundage told reporters, but added the following year may be better, fiscally speaking.

If enough savings are achieved and the personal income of Americans continues to rise as expected, Brundage said, Congress could consider tax relief next spring—although not to take effect until midyear or thereafter.

"I am hoping we can hold the 1957 budget to 70 billion dollars," he told a news conference.

"I don't exactly expect that, but I think every member of the administration is doing his level best."

If Congress sticks to its economic drive, it would be very helpful.

The budget review provided this picture of federal income and outgo in the government year which is now three months old.

Spending, 72 billion dollars, as compared with the $71,000,000,000 figure which stirred a storm of congressional criticism when Eisenhower announced it in his budget message.

Receipts, 73 1/2 billion dollars, down 100 million from the January estimate, partly because of anticipated lower taxable earnings by corporations. Individual income tax receipts are expected to rise.

Surplus, 1 1/2 billion dollars, all of it destined to go into reducing the federal debt.

The comparative figures for last year—the one that ended June 30—were: expenditures $69,400,000,000; receipts 71 billion dollars; surplus $1,600,000,000.

The budget review said that "by balancing the budget, the federal government is helping to restrain the inflationary pressures which have developed in the widely shared prosperity our people are now enjoying."

Faulty Brakes Blamed In Crash

LOS ANGELES — Police examination showed today that brakes were faulty on the school bus which toppled into a ravine, killing three children and injuring 24 Monday.

The left front brake of the bus was operating poorly and the right front brake was not operating at all, police said.

But investigators said the cause of the accident may have been a broken drive shaft.

Officer Kills Crazy Man, Carrying Axe

LAUREL, Md. — A Laurel town policeman last night shot and killed James E. Matthews, 31, after being called to investigate the man's menacing behavior with an axe.

John Shackleford, 50, a police veteran, fired a single shot into Matthews' abdomen from a distance of six feet, according to Prince Georges County Detective James Kerns.

Witnesses said Matthews, a former mental patient, was about to attack Shackleford with the axe. Kerns said the shooting occurred near Matthews' house.

Shackleford shot three times into the ground at Matthews' feet before firing at the man, Kerns said. The incident took place in the presence of Matthews' father, William Matthews.

Matthews had been a recent inmate at the State Mental Hospital at Croftsville, according to Kerns, and had just finished serving a 30-day jail sentence for disorderly conduct.

Kerns said Laurel Police had trouble with Matthews before.

Search Pressed For Three Men Missing In Bay

NORFOLK, Va. — The Coast Guard today pressed searches for three men missing aboard boats in Chesapeake Bay.

Coast Guard boats found no trace yesterday of Tanager Island boatman Andrew Crockett, 65, missing since Friday, or the missing 45-foot cabin cruiser Miss Jean, last seen near York Spit Light with two men aboard.

Aircraft search for the missing boats was cancelled yesterday because of unfavorable weather, and Coast Guard searches reported they could not effectively hunt near the bay shoreline because of poor visibility and rough waters.

Crockett disappeared while hauling a load of lumber from Onancock to Tangier on his boat, powered by an automobile engine.

Prayer Day Led By Ike

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower led Americans today in a National Day of Prayer, at a service which put implied emphasis on racial integration problems.

The President, still embroiled in the situation at Little Rock, Ark., to which he devoted most of yesterday afternoon and evening, attended a special 8:30 a. m. prayer meeting at the National Presbyterian Church. He is a member of that church.

The service was held in observance of a National Day of Prayer proclaimed by Eisenhower himself last Aug. 8 under a 1952 act of Congress.

Three Killed In Collision

ACCOMAC, Va. — Three persons were killed, including a father and son, in a truck-auto collision on U. S. 13 at noon yesterday near Accomac on Virginia's Eastern Shore.

State police list the victims as Willey Lee Starchia, 72, the driver of the auto; William H. Tankard Jr., 62 and William H. Tankard Jr., 39. All are Negroes and list Exmore in Northampton County as their home.

State police Sgt. E. C. Maggette, investigating, said the car carrying the three victims and a 1951 model truck operated by Dallas Johnson, 34, of Onancock, collided just 200 feet south of Accomac town limits.

The President, after conferring with four Southern governors, announced he would withdraw federal troops from Central High provided Arkansas' Gov. Orval Faubus issued a statement guaranteeing that he would not obstruct federal court integration directives and would maintain order.

Faubus issued a statement which Eisenhower said did not give the assurances the President sought. "Federal surveillance" would remain, Eisenhower said.

Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, reported violence and threats to the "Little Rock Nine" on the part of white students yesterday.

She said that pencils, papers and pebbles were thrown at the children. Some of the six Negro girls were shown knives and were shoved, Mrs. Bates said.

"When they asked a guardsman about reporting the incidents, he just moved away. They got no protection," the NAACP leader said.

Yugoslavia To Seek U. S. Loans For Industry Boosts

WASHINGTON — Communist Yugoslavia is exploring this week the possibility of obtaining United States loans to help finance basic Yugoslav industrial expansion.

Talks began today between Yugoslav Finance Minister Avdo Luma and Secretary of State Dulles.

President Tito's independent Communist government is planning to build up hydroelectric power production, aluminum and copper output and fertilizer production. It hopes to obtain outside capital, including financing from the United States. Yugoslav officials have long contended that such loans could be repaid in a reasonable time through exports of electric power, aluminum and copper.

Titoist Yugoslavia has received military and economic aid from the United States to a total of almost 1 1/2 billion dollars since Tito broke with Stalinist Russia in 1948. New Yugoslav aid programs are now under consideration.

United States assistance to Yugoslavia is based on the decision that it is in this country's interest to help Yugoslavia survive as an independent Communist country, as an example for independence moves in other Eastern European nations still subject to Moscow's dictates.

Muscular Dystrophy Curb Seen By Two Researchers

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Two researchers of the University of Arkansas School of Medicine have reiterated a conviction that their experiments with rhesus monkeys could be a major step toward preventing or curing muscular dystrophy in humans.

Dr. Paul L. Day, head of the school's department of biochemistry, and Dr. James S. Dinning, an associate professor of biochemistry, announced last Saturday that they had found a relationship between vitamin E and muscular dystrophy in monkeys.

They said experimental monkeys were fed a purified diet of biscuits containing no vitamin E, and after 6-13 months developed every sign of muscular dystrophy. Because vitamin E is found in many foods, it is not a lack of it that causes the disease in humans. This fact led Day and Dinning to a belief that through some hereditary defect, muscular dystrophy victims cannot convert the raw vitamin E into its usable active form known as co-enzyme.

They announced that their next step would be an attempt to determine the nature of the vitamin E active form.

They said their goal was to learn how to produce the active coenzyme of vitamin E in a form which would be administered in a manner similar to insulin for diabetes.

New Landing Gear Tested By Fairchild

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force said today a new wide-tread main landing gear for airplanes has been tested successfully by the Air Proving Ground Command.

The gear, developed by the Fairchild Aircraft Division at Hagerstown, Md., was designed to improve the performance of planes operating off rough or unprepared landing areas.

It was developed primarily for the Fairchild C123 assault transport, currently in wide use by the Air Force.

As tested at Pope Air Force Base, N. C., the wheels of the plane, instead of dropping straight down when extended for a landing, swing outward and down on a new type of joint.

The wheels thus are four feet wider apart, making for much greater stability on landing in a crosswind.

In an announcement approved by the Air Force, W. L. Landers, Fairchild vice president, said the new gear provides improved distribution of weight, gives the pilot greater control of the plane on the ground, makes for shorter takeoff and landing distances, and is easier to service and maintain.

The design also features a wider tire.

The Air Proving Ground Command will conduct special crosswind landing tests at Ardmore Air Force Base, Okla.

Candidates Accuse Each Other In Va.

RICHMOND, Va., (AP) — The two top candidates for governor of Virginia, while maintaining an air of mutual respect, each accused the other here last night of having "no plan" for meeting the school segregation crisis.

It was their first encounter on the same platform in this campaign.

Republican Ted Dalton said he did have a plan, the North Carolina type plan of locally administered pupil assignment, which he said would "preserve for all intents and purposes for generations to come our separate public schools."

Democrat J. Lindsay Alford Jr. said there is no plan and that Virginia must remain in a "flexible position" so it can "evaluate and assess the situation as it arises and apply the best brains of Virginia to its solution."

Each spoke for about 20 minutes at the regular meeting of the Richmond Junior Chamber of Commerce and then joined in a brief question and answer period. Some 250 jayvees and their guests gave both candidates standing ovations.

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever—Morris.

Aftermath

THE AMERICAN political scene seems bound to be materially affected in 1958 and 1960 by the turbulent events at Little Rock this fall. These events will alter a picture already in continuous shifting population and such special factors as 1957's discrediting disclosures in the field of organized labor. Most observers feel that the forceful line taken by President Eisenhower in the Little Rock controversy will severely handicap any effort of the Republicans to build a real flux as a result of a swelling, changing economy, a growing party in the South in the years just ahead. Mr. Eisenhower's own deep election inroads in the South, especially in 1956, had encouraged some to feel that now was the time to toll for a genuine two-party system there. That prospect probably has vanished now. To the extent that Negroes participate more heavily in future elections, some GOP gain might follow.

BUT THE BELIEF is that this will be more than offset by major defections from among those who voted for the President last year. On the other hand, the political experts think Republicans in northern and western states will pick up additional Negro support which could be crucial in certain populous areas where Negroes appear to hold the balance of voting power. California, Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania and New York fall in this category. Obviously, northern Democrats in competing for these northern and western votes will likely feel compelled to press for strong civil rights programs. The balance in some of these areas may already have shifted against them because of the population flight to the conservative suburbs. They will not be inclined to take the risk of further big losses.

TO URGE STRONG civil rights projects, however, will be to put these Democrats at distinct odds with their conservative Southern colleagues. Party unity, shrewdly promoted this year by Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas in the civil rights struggle in Congress may be sorely strained. Signs already exist that a new civil rights battle may develop in Congress in 1958. Beyond question, the effort to find common North-South ground in a 1960 Democratic platform will be made far more difficult by the sharpened differences growing out of Little Rock. Which party will gain or lose the most in consequence of this controversy no sensible man would try now to forecast. It is clear only that the coalitions of voters in the North and South which produced the presidential outcome of 1956 will not exist in 1958 and 1960. Big change is in the air.

Farewell

SOME POLITICIANS' farewells are like those of actors or concert performers. They are only the first of a series, and the real final engagement may be years off. Thus one can't be sure at this moment, three years from convention time, that Sen. Lyndon Johnson's "farewell" to presidential ambitions in 1960 will really stick. But if it does, then the outlook is substantially changed for the Democrats. There probably is no other Southern party leader now on the horizon who can command the support Johnson would likely muster in the South itself. Whether or not he could ever hope to draw enough strength from other sectors to give him a serious chance at the nomination is, of course, the big question. But certainly anyone going into convention with a big block of Southern delegates would have a lot of weight to cast into the final balance. With Johnson out, and assuming no one else comes along to take his place, Southern delegates would tend to veer toward some promising non-Southern candidate. The shape of the race would be quite different. Thus far Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts has found considerable favor in the South, though it is still too early to tell whether this can be translated into delegate votes. Unless Johnson changes his mind, the South seems sure to be a busy hunting ground in the years ahead. And, obviously, Southerners, aware of their strategic position in any nomination fight, will be prepared to do some hard bargaining with vote-seeking candidates. Nobody gives something for nothing in politics.

Business Secret Weapon In Race Issue

WASHINGTON — Despite Arkansas, President Eisenhower does not intend that the school integration struggle shall dominate his second term nor even the months immediately ahead.

His aides here are sounding the propaganda note: law and order. All that the President did in Little Rock, they explain, is to restore law and order. When that is firmly achieved, it is said that the issue will be referred to the courts where it belongs.

In substance, this will be the President's story to the Southern Governors this week. His plan is to keep those discussions general in tone and he will refuse to become enmeshed in their separate problems.

AIDES SUGGEST that the Governors must face it: They are not going to be permitted to put their difficulties on the President's shoulders in any way, shape or form.

The President's prescription will not be wholly unpalatable to his guests, who were forced into making the request for a White House conference by events in Little Rock. They hope to make it appear that they were received warmly and sympathetically, but as one put it: "The less we hear about Federal action, the better for us."

At the end of the conference the Governors, of course, will be talking for home consumption. The President naturally will seek to play down the story nationally and above all, internationally.

IN THE President's favor are several factors. There is the moderate Southern leadership of Congress which also would like to detach itself from the issue. It does not echo White House optimism that oil can be poured on the troubled waters, but it is not an accident that there has been a minimum of Congressional comment now.

One legislative leader pointed out that every Supreme Court decision day will be a hazard. The court has two race cases before it, one involving the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the other, segregationist John Kasper.

In addition, it is expected to get an appeal this session a Federal court order to two major Virginia cities to integrate. They are Alexandria and Arlington, both a stone's throw from the capital itself. Virginia is viewed here as furnishing the real test of the Southern attitude.

THE SECRET weapon working for integration is business. The increasing industrialization of the South is a major economic phenomena of the times; every Southern state, Arkansas included, is working overtime to attract new plants and new enterprises.

These are largely national in scope and cannot afford, at least openly, to appear to cooperate with segregationists on any local front.

When the race issue became "bad for business," not just in the big Northern states but all over the South, many people felt it was on the way toward being solved. Business is found to be a force working toward solution, either openly or in quiet.

IN THIS connection it is noteworthy that the two leading figures of the just concluded Southern Governors Conference were from highly industrialized North Carolina (Gov. Luther Hodges) and Florida (Gov. Leroy Collins).

Unquestionably in their calls for moderation these men had the business communities of their states behind them. This economic factor is relatively new in the picture and it is more important than the extremists who talk of third parties.

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK—There was once an American novelist, now dead as a result of an automobile accident, named Nathaniel West. He wrote three or four novels, two of which were "Miss Lonelyhearts" and "The Day of the Locusts," or maybe it was "The Days of the Locusts." In any case, it was a satirical novel about Hollywood.

There is, at hand a letter from a Professor of English at Indiana State Teachers College. His name is James F. Light, and he is seeking a Ph.D. on a theme on West. He is not alone in his enthusiasm for West. In the last 18 months, West has almost become a cult. As a dissenter, maybe I'd best talk about West and Mr. Light.

MR. LIGHT'S letter says: "As you were a friend of West's... I was never a friend of his. I was a collaborator with him on one motion picture script which, first time out, I had written alone and which didn't sell. West was called in to help make it sell. It finally jelled and became a perfectly terrible motion picture."

Mr. Light asks if West ever talked, during our collaboration, of books he had read? He did not. Did he ever discuss religion? Not once. Did he ever discuss his parents—or sisters—of women in general? Odd as it may seem, considering the legend of Hollywood minds, he never mentioned women in any way. I did not know he had sisters and to this day know nothing about his parents.

We worked together for several weeks patching up a resistant script and talked, except for once, about only two other matters.

MR. LIGHT WANTS to know if West ever mentioned Communism. No, he didn't, although some people thought he had. Leftist leanings. We never discussed politics.

Once, it being a time when Communism was a sort of popular amateur tournament in Hollywood, he kiddingly picked up his pay check and said: "I'm rich beyond the dreams of avarice," and a rather acknowledged Communist writer of the time quipped, with equal hilarity: "Me, too."

DID HE EVER discuss Hollywood or Hollywood experiences with me?

No. I felt he was sort of a social lone wolf, never seeing many people socially. He was tremendously grave about a lot of things and during the collaboration on the script constantly tried to inject Spanish revolutionary doctrine into the film, although the story concerned a young man at Culver, a military school.

Spain's internal struggle was much in the news at the time and West finally did inject, over my protest, a scene in which a cadet quoted La Passionara, a Spanish revolution firebrand of the time.

The line quoted from her was: "It is better to die on your feet than live on your knees." It always seemed to me, apart from political implications, a little flamboyant as a line for an adolescent cadet to utter.

FINALLY, Mr. Light asks if there is any other area of West's interests that I remember? Yes. He was fascinated by Tom Mooney, a long time prisoner of a California penitentiary. When Mooney was released, West casually enough said: "You are doing that daily column for New York. I think it would be interesting for you to talk to Tom Mooney. He's coming to So-and-So's house tonight."

As an inquisitive newspaperman, to whom the name had news-meaning, I went. I saw 40-odd Hollywood writers there and all 40-odd were clamoring, "Tom, did you...?" and "Tom, will you...?" and "Isn't it true, Tom, that...?" and so on.

I couldn't get within 20 feet of Mooney and after about an hour, I gave it up and went home.

I NEVER DID get to talk to Mooney, which was bad reporting, but that reiterated "Tom" business was getting a little thick for me. Above I said, So-and-So's house." That was not to protect the ostensible host of the evening. I simply do not remember whose house Mooney was in. Next day, West said: "You never talked to Tom," and I said: "No, I never talked to Mooney," and that ended that.

All of this is being put down because West is becoming a cult in the way that Henry Miller is a cult. I knew both of them and I cannot honestly say I think either deserves such attention. They just don't and didn't write that well. This is churlish. After all, when recovering from an operation, West sent me a copy of his "Locusts" book, inscribed. Nevertheless...

Cars Clean; Speech Dirty

WASHINGTON—Detroit is the place where the citizens really love their motor cars. There these vehicles get the tenderest of care, and that explains why the city has nearly 300 high-speed car wash establishments.

Jimmy Hoffa's Teamsters Union boys naturally have been trying to organize these buggy beautifiers, but they haven't had much luck with the car wash emporium of Bernard and Margaret Blaklin. They fought back with weapons such as never entered a labor dispute before.

The nervous Bernie and the calm Margaret told of their continuing battle with the Teamsters before some fascinated Senators investigating labor rackets.

SOME OF Hoffa's friends, including labor leader William Buffalo and his helper, one Lawrence (The Gorilla) Welsh, put pickets around their soapy establishment when they refused to enroll their 18 employees en masse in the Teamsters Union.

Bernie and Margaret got an injunction against the pickets in 1951, and an uneasy peace prevailed around the car-spraying premises until last year when Buffalo returned with word that the washers now were organized. He put a troop of pickets out front.

Bernie polled his helpers; they hadn't either joined the union. So he put up a big sign: "Fraud. Blackmail. These outlaws don't represent our employees. Our men are at work."

THIS MADE Buffalo and The Gorilla sore. Bernie said they came to his front office door and cursed his wife. Their language was something awful. He quoted it exactly. Senator John L. McClellan had to shush him. "You're on television, you know," said the Senator. Bernie blushed and subsided, but he said he fixed that Gorilla with another sign. He had a friend who ran a movie film exchange and in the back room he found a poster advertising an old picture. It showed a bare-chested gorilla serving as the villain of a drama entitled, "Gorilla At Large."

"GORILLA" Welsh knew what Gorilla I meant by that," said Bernie. He also said The Gorilla caught up with him one night in the alley behind the car wash and threatened to stick a knife in his back. This didn't worry Bernie. He painted another sign. This one said: "Let freedom ring. Come in and ring the bell."

Bernie meant that freedom-loving Detroiters could drive into his place and ring the big bell—he'd provided for the purpose. As an extra, added inducement, he offered them free car washes.

He said the Teamsters bigwigs tried to swipe his bell, but he guarded it well. He also put up some other signs, of similar defiant nature. Margaret passed photos of them to the Senators.

Assignment America

NEW YORK—Rehna ("Tiny") Cloette, who's about five feet tall and barely weighs enough to support a mink cape without becoming stoop-shouldered, went over to Europe some time ago to get herself a husband.

She was 29 "and not getting any younger, prettier, smarter, wealthier or anything else promising."

The search through Europe was frustrating, and as she reluctantly caught a ship back to the States, she was 29 and a little and not getting anywhere.

Then, suddenly, she located and snagged, from among the passengers, a quite presentable husband. Twice her size, cultured, amusing, moderately rich, named Stuart Cloette. Listed in "Who's Who" as writer, British.

Golden Door

STUART CLOETTE now describes the experience—of being located and snagged—as "an enormous series of deceptions, gross deceptions." He continues: "If this woman had been beautiful and intelligent and capable of taking care of herself, I'd never have married her. Wouldn't have needed to. But you get a small creature like this one, and she acts helpless, it's insidious..."

"Tiny" is sitting across the cocktail table from him as he talks. She nods assent.

"Disgusting," she says, "what a woman will do. Sorry, Stuart."

"She's not just silly, like ordinary women," Stuart continues. "She is idiotic."

His wife smiles philosophically. "I have discovered," she observes, "that if a woman is merely silly, nobody thinks anything about it. But if you are idiotic, you get a lot of attention."

"We lived for a time in Africa," says Stuart. "In the mountains 160 miles from Capetown—a marvelous peaceful place to live. But we came home because she was dying to eat clams. Not even pregnant, just whimsical; dying for clams."

Tiny bristled slightly. "Eight years," she snapped, "is a long time without steamers. Or even chowder."

She is so small that in England during the blitz I actually had her on a leash—a ridiculous position for a man to be in."

"Quite sensible though," he smiled at him respectfully. "Stuart is quite brilliant."

TINY IS AUTHOR, and Stuart the subject, of a new book called "To Catch A Man."

It describes, in minute detail, the intricate series of devices a small and helpless woman can employ to get herself a good catch. It is based on what appears to be a sound theory—that if a woman is not beautiful and not brilliant, she had best be helpless.

"In weakness," as the author says, "there is strength."

She sums it up this way: "If a man wants to order dinner for you, let him. There may be some nights when you get chicken a la king, which is far from your preference. But over the long haul, I have found that this system supplies you with more sirloin steak than perhaps you deserve..."

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK—Anyone who thinks stamp collecting today is a kid's game is only kidding himself. It's a tremendous business, and a growing field of investment.

"Stamps have become a form of international currency," said Jack Taub, who at 26 is a dealer who does a half million dollar volume yearly here and in London.

"There are now 50 million collectors around the world, including 15 million in the United States."

"Stamps have become a tremendous hedge against inflation. Even during the depression the value of stamps dropped only 15 to 20 per cent."

But as in every other form of investment, those who seek to build a fortune in postage stamps must know what kind to buy—and when to buy them. Right now—surprisingly—United Nations issues are plying the field in the worldwide stamp collecting boom.

"I know of one man, for example," said Taub, "who invested $200 in U. N. stamps and two years later sold them for $55,000."

THE REASON FOR the explosive rise in value of the early issues of the U. N. stamps lies in their rarity—and a deepening interest in the United Nations itself.

"The U. N. printed six million of its first stamp in 1951," recalled Taub, "and there was so little interest in them that U. N. officials burned them by the hundreds of thousands."

"Now four to five million people are collecting U. N. stamps, and many of the scarcer issues have skyrocketed. A souvenir 15-cent sheet of stamps issued Oct. 24, 1955, today is worth $20—and they'll be worth more."

So much interest was stirred in the U. N. stamps that dealers set up the U. N. Philatelic Information Committee, with Taub as chairman, to serve as a world-wide clearing house for these issues.

But Taub warned that after Oct. 24, 1956, the U. N. began printing its stamps by the millions again, and the later issues are in plentiful supply and unlikely to increase greatly in value.

"THE VALUE OF stamps is governed strictly by the law of supply and demand," he pointed out. "And not all are good investments, by any means."

"The United States prints 140 million of its commemorative issues. Many people buy 10 sheets of every U. S. stamp and put them away. So many do that that even 10 years later they aren't worth even their face value to collectors."

"The Post Office won't take them back, so all you can do with them is to put them on letters. And who writes that many letters?"

On the other hand, Taub said, a portfolio of carefully chosen stamps will increase in value faster than a cross-section of industrial stocks or bonds.

Then why don't brokers save stamps? "They do," said Taub, cheerfully. "So do bankers. They may do it for a hobby—but they are people who like even a hobby to show a profit."

Four Queens Have Slept At White House

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The coming visit of Queen Elizabeth II has thrown Washington social historians into secondary tizzy on the question of how many queens have slept in the White House.

The records of the White House itself are no good on this point. Every administration takes its own records with it and there is no file of distinguished visitors worth a darn.

Library of Congress has done some research on this, however, and comes up with the most accurate list to date.

The answer is that nine queens have visited the White House, but only four of them slept there. You can raise that to five if you count the second visit of the present Queen Elizabeth's mother in 1934. But she was Queen Mother then, and not reigning queen.

THE FIRST reigning monarchs who seem to have hit town were King Albert I of Belgium and his Queen Elizabeth.

They were here in October, 1919, nearly a year after the end of World War I. They got heroic welcomes because of the gallant stand of their little country against the Germans. But they didn't stay at the White House. President Woodrow Wilson was seriously ill at the time. The royal couple merely called to pay their respects.

The second queen to call was Marie of Romania, but she didn't stay at the White House either. There was a major hassle over her grand tour from start to finish, including the Washington visit October 18-19, 1926 in the Coolidges' time.

On arrival the Queen made a short formal call at the White House at 4 p.m. The Coolidges immediately returned the call. No photos were permitted at the White House. But when the Coolidges got to the Queen's suite, cameras were all set up and the Coolidges had to submit.

The formal 8 p.m. dinner at the White House next night lasted exactly one hour and 45 minutes. Then the Coolidges went upstairs to bed and the Queen had no place to go but back where she came from.

THIRD ROYAL visitors were King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambai of Siam now Thailand, in 1931. They were the first absolute monarchs to visit this country. The King came for removal of a cataract on his eye and was in the U.S. April 20 to July 29.

His Washington official visit was April 28-30. President Hoover gave a state banquet for him and George Washington University gave him an honorary degree. There was a state reception which was probably the most glamorous Washington social event of the whole depression.

The King is now dead, but Queen Rambai still lives in Bangkok. She is aunt of the present King Phumiphon Aduldej.

The first royal visitors actually to sleep in the White House were Britain's late King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, the present Queen Mother. They were entertained by the Roosevelts June 8 and 9, 1939, then went to Hyde Park for the weekend.

During the war, the first royal visitor was Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands. She stayed at the White House Aug. 5 and 6, 1942. At a state banquet, President Roosevelt toasted her "great leadership and high achievement." She was the first queen ever to address the U.S. Congress.

AFTER THE WAR, her daughter, Queen Juliana, and consort Prince Bernhard visited the United States and Canada. They stayed at the White House April 2-4, 1951 as the guests of President and Mrs. Truman.

King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece were entertained by President and Mrs. Eisenhower Oct. 28-30, 1953. They stayed at the White House one night, then moved to Blair-Lee House, the government's official guest residence.

Britain's Queen Mother Elizabeth spent nearly a month in the U.S. and Canada in 1954. She was in Washington Nov. 4-12, spending the first two days at the White House with the Eisenhowers.

Shah Mohammed Riza Pahlevy of Iran and his young Queen Sareyo were entertained at lunch in the White House by President and Mrs. Eisenhower on Dec. 13, 1954, but this wasn't a state visit. The Shah came to the U.S. for a medical checkup.

King Saud of Saudi Arabia was in Washington Jan. 29-Feb. 9, 1957. He was met by President Eisenhower and entertained at the White House but he stayed at Blair-Lee.

Radar Inventor Might Strike It Rich After Losing Struggle

By JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Radar manufacturers are setting up their legal antennae to detect what effect a new patent will have on their industry.

For electronics companies will soon have to start paying Col. William B. Blair sizable royalties unless they can prove he is not the first United States inventor of radar or devise an electronic warning system of their own. Although the patent provides the government with a royalty free license, the retired 92-year-old Signal Corps scientist could still strike it rich through the commercial sales. He now lives in Fair Haven, N. J.

Because of the high stakes and tight rope legal aspects involved, both sides are hesitant to talk about the case.

William D. Hall, Blair's attorney, says, "I assume all major electrical companies are investigating the validity of the patent." A spokesman for the Radio Corporation of America says only, "I'm sure we're considering the matter."

No One Knows

And an official of the Electronics Industries Association voices a similar statement about other radar manufacturers.

No one knows for sure how much money the former Army officer stands to make. But it is believed the royalties will at least top a million dollars.

COL. WILLIAM BLAIR

Recently interest has been focused on a rumor that Blair is thinking about selling his patent rights. Hall doesn't deny this might happen. "I suppose Col. Blair would consider selling if anyone offered him enough money," the attorney says.

These are the latest developments in a scientific and legal struggle that began more than 25 years ago.

Shortly before 1910, while serving as chief of the Signal Corps Laboratories in Fort Monmouth, N. J., Blair figured out a way to bounce short radio waves off an airplane to determine its distance and direction. In 1917 he demonstrated his first complete radar set to government officials. Its success sparked Uncle Sam to order radar production for use by the Army.

Couldn't File
Because the project was shrouded in secrecy, Blair was not allowed to file for a patent until 1935. This restriction resulted in a series of legal barricades which took him 12 years to hurdle. Patent law is loaded with complex technicalities. In order to

County Health Group Will Attend Meeting

Eight representatives of the Allegany County Health Department will attend the third annual meeting of the Maryland Public Health Association at Bethesda on Friday.

They are Mrs. Jeanie Grahame, Miss Margaret Morrissey, Mrs. Isabelle Laughlin, Mrs. Lois Jackson, Mrs. Margaret Hanson, Mrs. Vanda McGinn, Mrs. Gladys Pitzer, and Miss Garnett Fazenbaker.

Following registration greeting from the American Public Health Association will be extended by Dr. John Kautson, president.

A panel discussion on physical and mental health will begin at 10 a. m. The moderator will be Dr. V. L. Ellicott, chief, Bureau of Medical Services of the Maryland State Department of Health. The panel "Degenerative Processes and Disease Problems of Aging," will include Dr. A. S. Dowling, medical director, Mon-get a U. S. patent, a man must prove that he conceived an invention first or that his idea is sufficiently different from similar ones. There is also a statutory bar which knocks out an inventor's chances of getting a patent if a similar device was patented or described in a U. S. or foreign publication more than a year before he filed his application.

While Blair was getting his invention into shape, Britain, France and Germany were working on radar projects with especially rapid advances being made by the English scientists. Also other Americans were developing radar systems.

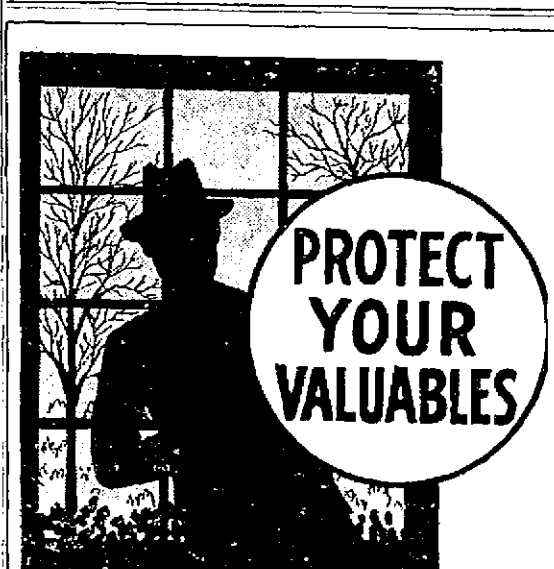

By 1935 Blair found himself pitted against an army of opponents, here and in Europe, who either claimed to have originated the whole warning system or an essential part of it. And the one year statute of limitations prevented him from doing anything about it.

Finally Congress passed a special act which wiped out the statutory bars in Blair's case. But the struggle to satisfy the Patent Office continued until Aug. 20 of this year. On that date, Blair was officially recognized as the father of radar in the United States.

Wall Street Hears....

NEW YORK — (INS) — Wall Street Hears:

Department store sales are heading for a record high in 1937. The gain over 1936, however, is expected to be a small one.

Resumption of a downturn in farm prices believed close at hand following six consecutive monthly advances. Year to year gains in recent months have been slight.

Lane Bryant sales in the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1938 should set a new record high for the third straight year. Net may run as high as $3 a share vs. $2.63 a year earlier.

A 70 per cent increase in exports may boost national supply volume above last year's record $283 million.

White Motors plans cutback in truck production resulting from lower level of orders.

Pacific Intermountain Express earnings this year likely to be near the $1.56 a share of 1936.

Market comment — Martin Gilbert of Bache & Co.:

"In view of the proportion of the decline to date, it would not be unusual for the market to retrace some of its lost ground. Any upturn could well carry to the 470 level of the Dow Jones Industrial averages."

Board Hears Regulations For Junk Yard

Gorman E. Geity, attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday read a rough draft of the proposed regulations for junk yards in the county to members of the board.

The county attorney reported that he has not yet done anything on the proposed regulations for garbage dumps and trailer camp sites.

At yesterday's meeting a petition was received from seven users of Mudlick Road, which runs off Orleans Road, in the eastern end of the county. The petitioners requested the county commissioners to place this road under county maintenance supervision.

They said the road, which is about two miles long, has been used by the general public for about 90 years. The matter was referred to County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman.

The principal region of foreign trade of the United States is the Western Hemisphere, half of these exports-imports being with Canada and Mexico.

CHARGED IN SLAYING — Branson Meharg, 52, was charged yesterday at Quam, Texas, in the slaying of groceryman Carl Clements. The victim was stabbed 18 times in the head, neck and chest. Also stabbed and in critical condition at a hospital is Mrs. Herbert Hillen, a clerk in the store. Less seriously injured was George Bodine, a carpenter who was doing repair work on Meharg's house. Bodine was shot in the jaw with a .38 calibre revolver. (AP Photofax)

Family Tells Background Of Suicide

Police Sergeant's Death Probe Linked With Murders Case

BALTIMORE — Expressing fear for their own safety, relatives of Baltimore Police Sgt. Charles E. Gross told State Police yesterday what they know about his mysterious suicide.

They were closeted for more than an hour with special State Police probes looking into moral charges against two of Gross' superiors in the Baltimore Police Department.

Among the relatives were Gross' widow and a brother also on the force, Detective Harry P. Gross. Also giving statements at nearby Pikesville State Police Headquarters were Mrs. Vincent Giordano, sister of the widow, and Mrs. Harry P. Gross, wife of the detective.

Gross died Monday of a self-inflicted bullet wound. He shot himself and slashed his wrist last Friday.

The two high-ranking police officials and a civilian, still unnamed publicly, were accused by the Criminal Justice Commission of maintaining an apartment for a convicted prostitute. City Police Commissioner James M. Heppner turned the matter over to State Police for investigation.

A link between Gross' death and the morals probe was indicated when Heppner said evidence in the Gross case was being turned over to State Police "for study as to possible pertinency" to their investigation.

Mrs. Charles Gross told a newsman at State Police headquarters her husband had been "conked" — duped — by certain members of the police department and a civilian.

Detective Harry Gross said the family wanted to make certain "the public eventually knows about the real facts of this case."

Mrs. Gross said Patrolman Raymond Belzner, a fellow Rackets Division member, was in the Gross home the night her husband took his life.

Belzner had gone there to determine why Gross had not reported for duty.

Mrs. Gross said her husband was in his room and she was in the kitchen making tea for him when her 10-year-old son by a previous marriage called her. She said she went to Gross' room and found him lying on the floor.

"He turned to Belzner, looked at him, then raised his gun," Mrs. Gross said. "I jumped and deflected the gun — and saved Belzner's life. My husband had wanted to shoot him."

"Before I could do anything else, my husband put a gun to his own head and fired."

Maj. William H. Weber, executive officer of the State Police, said witnesses in the probe will include city police other than those involved in the original charges.

He said the investigation report will be turned over to the Maryland attorney general's office.

Music Festival Slated In March

The All-Allegany County Instrumental Festival for band and orchestra members will be held March 13 and 14, according to Frank Gamble, supervisor of music education in the county public schools.

These dates were selected yesterday at a meeting of the instrumental music teachers with Gamble.

James W. Dunlop, conductor of bands at Pennsylvania State University, will serve as director of the new type festival here next year. It will mark the first time that an outside director has been obtained for the music festival.

About 90 outstanding instrumental musicians representing all schools of the county will be selected to participate in the two-day festival.

Upsurge Noted In Auto Tag Sales

The tax collector's office reported an upsurge in the sale of automobile license tags yesterday when lower rates became effective.

There had been virtually no sales at all for several weeks and then yesterday 37 automobile owners bought their new tags. One set was for a brand new automobile purchased by a young man who moved here recently from Yonkers, N. Y.

Most of the other cars which got the half price auto tags were of so-called ancient vintage although a few were only three or four years old.

There are still about 600 sets of tags on hand, it was reported.

BAKED HAM AND SWEET POTATOES

Lancaster Brand Half Ham	8 Medium Size Sweet Potatoes
Ideal Whole Cloves	1/2 teaspoon of salt
Aluminum Foil	1/2 cup of brown sugar

Wrap ham securely in aluminum foil, place in shallow baking pan in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F) and bake for 1 hour. Meanwhile peel and boil whole sweet potatoes in salt and enough water to cover. Remove potatoes from heat and drain when nearly cooked (soft outside but still firm in center when tested with fork). Remove ham from oven, unwrap foil from around ham and press it around sides of baking dish as a pan liner. Lay sweet potatoes around ham. Stud ham with whole cloves, sprinkle potatoes with brown sugar and return to oven 15 minutes to brown.

Syrian Communist Leader Khaled Bagdash Irked By Russian Minimization Of His Party's Power

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
DAMASCUS (AP)—The Russians, anxious to avoid giving the slightest cause for fright, apparently have administered a rebuke to the Communist leader in this country. Signs of conflict between the BAATH Arab Socialist Resurrection party and the Communists are arose during the summer. The Damascus Arab language press says Alram Hourani, the BAATH leader, mentioned in the presence of Khaled Bagdash, Communist leader, that the Communists were a negligible factor in Syria. Bagdash flared and retorted: "We'll soon show you how strong we are."

Since then Bagdash has been to Moscow. Usually when he returns from such junkets, the Communists stage big propaganda week-comes. This time he slipped back unnoticed. His return was not even publicly announced. BAATH leaders I have talked to have little use for Soviet communism. Michel Aflaq, the angular, slow-speaking philosopher of the BAATH movement, displays a distaste for Soviet exploitation of anything to do with Soviet ideology. The Russians try to foster this idea. The Soviet display at the Damascus International fair is big and impressive, ranging from tractors and heavy machinery to an outdoor color movie of the joys of Soviet life.

That Syria can cooperate with the Soviet government without having anything to do with Soviet ideology. The Russians try to foster this idea. The Soviet display at the Damascus International fair is big and impressive, ranging from tractors and heavy machinery to an outdoor color movie of the joys of Soviet life.

The Russians have attuned themselves to Arab psychology and are treating Syria as an important nation. Syria's leaders respond with gratitude to the Russians and rising attacks on the United States. The strongest single personality in the regime, Lt. Col. Abdul Hamid Seraj, seems to be anti-

Communist as well as anti-West, but his Arab nationalism makes him pro-Soviet. Agricultural production this year will be the best in Syria's modern history. The Syrian pound has recovered from the effects of last year's Suez crisis and is back almost at the pre-Suez level. Syria's leaders, apparently hoping Uncle Sam will learn a lesson, argue that their agreement with the Russians is a strictly business deal and cannot rightly be called aid. It is a loan at low interest to help Syria's economy. World's largest walleyed pike hatchery is at North Platte, Neb.

Martins Road Project Near Completion

Surfacing Work On Route 220 Will Be Finished This Week

The Martins Mountain project, which has seen three miles of Route 220 down the east slope relocated, will be finished November 1, G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission said today.

Practically all of the surfacing has been laid with the exception of a short section which still needs the top one and one-half inches of wearing course.

The million-dollar plus contract of the Bero Construction Company of Hampden, Va., will be ended when the small items are cleaned up.

Eliminates Curves

These include shoulder work, seeding, mulching, sodding, and finishing concrete gutters, curbs and headwalls, Chaires said.

The highway on the east slope of the mountain eliminates some of the worst curves and grades in the five-mile stretch between Hancock and Cumberland.

The new road has been open for traffic for several weeks.

Chaires also announced that the S. T. Brotenmarkle and Sons Construction Company will complete the surfacing of its contract on Route 220 between Rawlings and McCoolle this week.

Finish In Spring

Then the highway will be opened for use by the public, but the contractor will not finish the small items such as shoulder work and guttering until spring, Chaires reported.

Most of the 4,295 mile project covers a section of McDowell Highway below Rawlings toward McCoolle. There is also a short stretch in the north end of Cresapton where a new box culvert has been installed.

Brotenmarkle was low bidder and was awarded the job at a cost of $706,778.

Authorities Hold Youth

A 14-year-old local boy has been lodged in the Detention Quarters at the Allegany County Jail after being apprehended Monday in Hagerstown.

The boy was reported missing by his mother on September 8. He was apprehended Monday evening in Hagerstown while driving a stolen automobile.

Edwin R. Litya, Allegany County's criminal investigator, this morning said the boy was questioned yesterday and stated that after running away from home he went to Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania authorities nabbed the boy on September 11 and detained him in detention quarters there. The local boy had told police he was from Texas.

This past Sunday he escaped from Pennsylvania and returned to Cumberland where he stole an automobile and drove to Hagerstown.

B&O Worker Retires After 40 Years Duty

H. E. Wright, 65, who was assistant trainmaster for the B&O Railroad in Cumberland from April 16, 1916 until December 16, 1956, has retired after almost 40 years service.

Wright entered the service of the railroad on the Baltimore Division at Washington in July of 1916 as a fireman in yard service. On March 16, 1940 he was named assistant trainmaster at Connellysburg and served there until transferred to Cumberland.

In 1950 Wright was transferred to Rowlesburg, W. Va., where he served as assistant trainmaster at M. and K. Junction until his retirement yesterday.

Collection Of Taxes High For County

The collection of Allegany County taxes so far for 1957 has been good, according to J. Wallace Close, tax collector.

Close said a total of $2,133,594 of the approximately $2,300,000 tax levy has been collected. All taxpayers who have not yet paid their 1957 county taxes will be charged one per cent interest. The outstanding taxes from the 1957 levy total about $170,000, Close added.

It was also noted that unpaid taxes from the 1956 county levy amount to $22,000 and interest on unpaid tax bills will be at the rate of seven per cent, Close explained. Persons who have not paid their state property taxes from 1956 are charged six and one-half per cent interest.

Yesterday the interest on state property taxes of the 1957 levy was placed in effect at a one per cent rate. The 1956 levy of county taxes has resulted in $2,271,914.73 being collected.

A large number of Allegany County taxpayers took advantage of the five per cent discount allowed for the prompt payment of taxes last June. The discount rate dropped each succeeding month until September when interest was charged.

Detectives Experience Busiest Time

The past four weeks have been the busiest in a long time for members of the Detective Bureau of the Cumberland Police Department.

Lt. James E. Van and Det. Thomas See said this morning that seven breaking and enterings and a number of vandalism cases have been wrapped up in recent weeks.

The breaking and enterings occurred twice at the confectionery stand under Fort Hill Stadium, twice at the Pennsylvania Avenue Elementary School, one at Wayne's Feed Store, one at the Super 40 Drive-in theatre and one at the Starlite Theatre on Oldtown Road.

A total of 14 local boys have been questioned concerning the robberies. Charges against the youths have been deferred pending complete investigation, Lt. Van said.

The latest in the vandalism cases was marked "Closed" yesterday when four boys admitted they were involved in vandalism at Constitution Park.

Lt. Van said the boys reportedly turned over picnic tables, fastened swing chains, tossed bottle caps onto the roads and damaged an engine bell.

Lt. Van said Robert R. Golden, park superintendent, spotted one of the boys and told authorities who he was. Lt. Van said through cooperation of a local school the boy was apprehended.

Det. See noted this morning that he has released at least eight other youths within the past week and after they were taken into custody in connection with other juvenile cases.

State Sales Tax Receipts Up In County

Rate Of Increase Exceeded In Only Other Districts

Baltimore and Garrett counties are the only two political subdivisions of Maryland which showed a greater percentage increase in the collection of retail sales taxes in 1956-57 than Allegany County.

This was revealed today in the tenth annual statistical report of the Retail Sales Tax Division of the Maryland Comptroller of the Treasury.

Collections in seven of the eight classifications were greater than the previous year for this county with the over all increase being 16.22 per cent. The figures place the total for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1957 at $1,109,335. This compares to $1,006,169 for the previous 12 months.

Top For County

The total is the largest ever collected in this county and it marked the sixth straight year of 23.27 per cent.

The Baltimore County figure was $6,519,005, an increase of 32.79 per cent.

The only areas to exceed Allegany in collections were Baltimore City, Baltimore County, Montgomery County, Prince Georges County, out of state vendors, District of Columbia, Annapolis County and Washington County.

For Washington County the total was $1,251,264, an increase of 9.5 per cent.

State Reaches Peak

Maryland sales and use tax collections during the fiscal year reached an all-time high of $45,867,499.61 according to J. Millard Tawes, comptroller.

Incorporated within the total receipts was $1,413,028.75 collected through deficiency assessments.

Tawes' office report shows a $1,011,115.11 increase over last year's total figure.

Tawes' report mentions that a total of 490,149 monthly returns for 1957 showed a decrease of 2,229 or .45 percent against the previous year's total of 492,369.

The principal cause of this decline was given as being a reduction of 2,309 reports from independent grocery stores.

Baltimore city continued to be the largest source of revenue with collections of $20,110,220.37 or 43.86 per cent of the total amount. However, this marks the first time that Baltimore City sales tax collections fell below the aggregate amount collected by the 23 Maryland counties.

Law Not Changed

The Maryland comptroller draws attention to the fact that there were no further amendments to the law affecting receipts substantially such as those put into effect June 1, 1955, but

Dinner Honors Retired Employee

Ernest S. Bucklew, 621 North Centre Street, was honored recently by his fellow employees at the River Plant of the Potomac Edison Company with a dinner at Moon's Restaurant. The event marked his retirement from the utility firm after 36 years of employment.

Born in Levels, W. Va., Bucklew began working for the firm in 1921 as an assistant fireman, and four years later was promoted to fireman, a position he held until his recent retirement.

Most of his employment with the PE was spent at the River Plant, the lone exception being when he worked for a brief period in the firm's construction department.

Bucklew was presented an engraved watch and service certificate at the dinner in recognition of his lengthy employment.

Allegany County Mining Near All-Time Low Point

In the past 107 years of coal mining in Allegany County, only two other years had lower production than 1956.

One was in 1934, and the other in 1881, the first year of the Civil War when rail communications east of here were disrupted by the unsettled conditions.

Statistics produced by Maryland Bureau of Mines and fles kept by the Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad, and its purchaser, the Western Maryland Railway, date back to 1842 when the first commercial mine in Allegany County was opened.

First Hunt In 1842

In 1956 production totaled 175,564 tons as compared to 174,185 tons in 1955.

The lowest, outside of these two years, was 147,400 tons in 1861.

The first year any coal was recorded as being hauled on the C&P and a railroad it later purchased, the Cumberland Coal and Iron Company's Railroad, was in 1842.

In this year a total of 1,708 tons was brought to Cumberland and then shipped east on the B&O Railroad.

It was in this year that the B&O Railroad reached Cumberland. Prior to that time, and until 1850 when the C&O Canal was opened, some coal was floated down the river to Georgetown in flat boats.

By 1850, the Georges Creek and Mt. Savage was shipping 296,848 tons a year. This, with the exception of the war years, gradually increased.

In 1951 the production fell back to 257,679 tons, but in 1952 it was 400,254 tons.

Until the time of the motor truck era, all of the coal mined in Georges Creek and Mt. Savage was hauled to the markets over the C&P Railroad, and its predecessors, the Georges Creek and Cumberland Railroad, and the Cumberland Coal and Iron Company Railroad, and later, the Western Maryland Railway.

From that, it can be stated that the Cumberland Coal Trade statistics are reasonably accurate on the production of bituminous coal in this county.

The first time the tonnage hit over 1,000,000 tons was in 1867 when the total production hit 1,121,290.

In just four years, the tonnage exceeded the 2,000,000 mark when in 1871 it rose to 2,167,500.

Over Four Million Tons

Then the 3,000,000 ton total was topped in 1888 when 3,106,070 was shipped over the rails.

It took only ten years for the tonnage to get over four million. That was in 1899 when the total was 4,226,597.

The top year as far as coal traffic was concerned for the C&P RR was in 1907 when 3,818,001 tons were hauled over its Cumberland-Mt. Savage-Frostburg-Westernport line.

The Georges Creek and Cumberland RR purchased in 1906 by the Western Maryland Railway had its top years in 1905 when 1,926,602 tons were hauled; in 1906—1,970,849 tons; 1907—1,929,847 tons; 1908—1,914,847 tons; 1909—1,911,666 tons and again in 1901—1,972,994 tons.

Between 1890 and 1902 most of the tonnage was above 900,000 on the Georges Creek.

Monday Big Day In Court

Monday was reported the biggest day in the past five years in Trial Magistrate Court.

During the day Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick handled a total of 62 cases, with fines totaling $847.60.

Magistrate Dick noted that two of the motor vehicle cases involved motorists driving while under the influence of liquor.

RETIREES FROM PE—Ernest S. Bucklew, 621 North Centre Street, has retired from the Potomac Edison Company after 36 years service with the firm, most of it at the River Plant. His fellow employees recently held a dinner in his honor, at which he was presented an engraved watch.

Milk Action Not Expected By State Unit

Members Indicate Opposition To Fixing Of Maryland Price

BALTIMORE (AP)—Action by the Legislative Council Judiciary Committee appears unlikely following a hearing last night on milk price increases.

Gen. Malkus (D-Dorchester), chairman of the committee, said he was opposed to government control over milk prices and several committee members agreed.

Milk distributors were absent from the hearing despite an invitation.

Del. Culotta (R-Balto 3rd), who called for the hearing, questioned whether distributors had left themselves subject to control by unanimously raising the retail price of milk in the Baltimore area by one cent to 26 cents yesterday.

The price increase was supported by Harry T. Gross, counsel for the Maryland Milk Producers Assn. He said producers will receive 86 per cent of the increase that went into effect yesterday. This raises the gross revenue to $5.60 per hundredweight, a figure less than prices three years ago, Gross said.

Del. Hess (D-Harford), a member of the cooperative himself, insisted "we would have to get $6 to $7 per hundredweight to make any money" as dairymen.

The absence of the distributors from the session was criticized by several committee members. Their only representative was Charles B. Page, counsel for several dairy companies, who said he was there only as an observer and wasn't prepared to speak for the group officially.

Del. Culotta, who said another one cent increase is scheduled for November, said "unanimity exists among distributors to the point that the price goes up for every one on this particular day. And it's strange that none of them is here to tell us why."

Damage Suit Totals Million

BALTIMORE (AP)—The federal government has filed suit for more than six million dollars in damages against Merrill Chapman and Scott, Inc., general contractors, as a result of a pier fire here in 1951.

The government said the U.S. Army transport George Washington was lost in the fire at Hawkins point in January, 1951.

The suit filed yesterday said the vessel was not able to navigate at the time and was burned so badly she had to be scrapped.

Lesser damage was sustained by the transport Edmond B. Alexander, which also was part of the reserve fleet.

The government asks $6,386,312. Merrill Chapman and Scott rented the pier from the Army in October, 1949, and agreed to allow the vessels to be anchored in the Patuxent River.

The government said it already has accepted $875,000 from the firm for damages to the pier.

State Sales

there was a general rise in all segments of business resulting principally from higher retail sales stemming out of full employment, expanding consumer incomes, population growth, and greater industrialization of the State.

"During the second half of the fiscal year," Tawes stated, "The vigor of the rise slowed down due to various economic factors such as were shown in heavy industry where expansion plans were completed."

However, in Allegany County collections were at a fast pace in the second half with 32.35 per cent of the total being received in this period. This percentage was exceeded in only Frederick and Montgomery counties.

Romulo Tells Newsmen Of Role In World

Declares Americans Not Money Mad As Communists Claim

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gen. Carlos Romulo has called on the American Press to make the people of the world realize "you are a spiritual people—not the materialistic, money mad people the communist propagandists say you are."

The Philippine diplomat warned yesterday at a luncheon opening National Newspaper Week of the danger from the "global, life and death struggle with communism."

"We are fighting a godless ideology that is ruthless and unscrupulous. It is working day in and day out to undermine dignity, decency, the love of God and everything that is worthwhile."

He said American newspapers are in the fight and should make America realize the stakes of the battle include "the American way of life."

Romulo said newspapermen have the same goal as the United Nations—"you are for peace, you write for peace, you fight for peace" in an attempt to promote better understanding among peoples of the world.

"Make your deeds coincide with your ideals and the American way of life will be invincible," he said.

Romulo, a former newspaperman in the Philippines, is his country's ambassador to the United States and its chief delegate to the United Nations.

He spoke to 125 newspaper executives, public officials and others in honor of the Maryland Gazette, America's oldest newspaper.

A telegram from President Eisenhower extending best wishes to the 230-year-old newspaper was read by Talbot T. Speer, publisher of the weekly newspaper and four other Southern Maryland papers.

Mrs. Colby Tucker, a direct descendant of William Parks, who founded the paper in 1727, and Mrs. Evelyn Green Bowers, descendant of Jonas Green, its long time publisher in Colonial days, helped run off a souvenir copy of the Gazette in a special ceremony at the Capital-Gazette plant.

Former Judge O'Dunne Calls For Qualified Jurists

BALTIMORE (AP)—Former Judge Eugene O'Dunne has challenged a "supine and spineless" Maryland bar to forget politics and pick qualified judges.

"Let's not take the bench out of politics—it's there to stay. Take the bar out of politics instead," Judge O'Dunne said.

The colorful and always outspoken jurist, who spent 20 years on Baltimore's Supreme Bench, was the guest of the Baltimore Bar Assn. last night. He was questioned by a panel of lawyers and press representatives.

Judge O'Dunne's remarks left no doubt that he opposed the Miles Plan which would revise the method for selecting judges in the state.

"I think the bench is stronger than in my day," he concluded. "I don't think the bench is free of politics."

"But I think the bar can put an end to all kinds of politics on the bench by...insisting on the integrity of the bench and...acting on a high toned professional basis."

'Baltimore Day' Highlights Tomorrow's Racing Card

7th Event On Program Named For D'Alesandro

Tomorrow is the day that "Little Brother" entertains "Big Brother" at the Cumberland Race Track.

Thursday has been designated as "Baltimore Day" by officials of the Cumberland Fair Association and Thomas D'Alesandro, mayor of the Monumental City.

Fairgo Wagering Race By Race

Here is a comparison, race by race, as to the amount bet on the eighth day at Fairgo last year and this year:

	1956	1957
First Race	$1,800	$1,600
Second Race	$1,800	$1,600
Third Race	$1,800	$1,600
Fourth Race	$1,800	$1,600
Fifth Race	$1,800	$1,600
Sixth Race	$1,800	$1,600
Seventh Race	$1,800	$1,600
Eighth Race	$1,800	$1,600
Daily Double	$1,800	$1,600
TOTAL HANDICAP	$14,400	$12,800
Eight-Day Total	$11,475.27	$11,475.27

will be here to represent Maryland's No. 1 community.

The seventh race has been named in honor of D'Alesandro who will preside at the winner's circle. The Baltimore mayor will make a short talk and present the owner of the winning horse with a savings bond.

Meanwhile, "Cumberland Day" is being celebrated today at the local half-mile track amid pleasant skies and "Indian summer" temperatures. Another good betting day is anticipated despite competition from the World Series. The afternoon started with wagering about 3 1/2 per cent ahead of last year's first eight days.

Yesterday, a total of $188,050 passed through the seller windows of the mutual department, jumping the total for eight days to $1,475,272.

Favorites failed in seven of Tuesday's eighth races, Tara's Hall, in the fifth, being the lone odds-on choice to hit the finish line first. Two of the numbers, the first and the last, were no closer than the camera had to decide the winner.

Four horses registered their second wins of the meeting on yesterday's program and the first one, Maryland Lady, had to survive a foul claim to become a repeater. Jockey Earl Phelps, on Miss Lovey, filed the objection against the winner, claiming that a foul occurred entering the first turn but the stewards ruled there was no evidence of any wrongdoing.

Other repeaters were Heat Flame in the second, King Jim in the fourth and Nasromond in the sixth.

William G. Myers tied up the trainers' race at four-when he saddled a pair of winners and caught up with Edward Leslie Miller. Maryland Lady was his third winner of the meeting and Nasromond was his fourth.

Top payoff of the day was recorded in the seventh when Mrs. Bessie L. Warren's Noble Dream, a four-year-old gelding by Noble Impulse out of Annie's Dream, whipped Rock Blade by five lengths and returned $27.60. This win boosted jockey Willie Clark's total to seven for the meet and tied him with Floyd Green for first place. Clark, incidentally, is the record holder at the local half mile, having ridden 26 winners here in 1955 during a 10-day season.

Double Pays $81.40

Annie's Dream, the dam of Noble Dream, was the queen of the half milers and won a leg on the Clifton W. White Trophy for Trainer Harvey N. Warren here in 1946. Annie's Dream also finished first in the White in 1947 but was disqualified and Beau Wynn declared the winner.

Other payoffs that exceeded $10 yesterday were Maryland Lady $12.60, King Jim $11.60, Sherard $11.40 and Heat Flame $11.

Clemente Stable's Mepas with Tommy McGovern in the saddle scored a half length over Weeping Princess in the third for a 57-mutuel while Nasromond, Joseph Servis up, whipped Donna's Fox in the sixth and paid $5.80.

Holders of daily double tickets on Maryland Lady (1) and Heat Flame (2) received $81.40. The double pool was $20,946.

Besmanoff Resembles Ex-Champ Schmeling

NEW YORK (A)—Willi Besmanoff, 25-year-old German-born heavyweight, reminded boxing fans of Max Schmeling, the former heavyweight champion. He has the dark eyebrows and a good right, both Schmeling trademarks.

Willi is a baker by trade and when he's finished in the ring plans to open his own bakery in the United States. He's married and lives in the Bronx.

EAGER BEAVERS

Walter Haight, regarded as one of the country's top racing writers, is shown here with his son, Raymond, while both were at work yesterday in the Fairgo press box. Walter devoted his column in the Washington Post and Times Herald today to the Cumberland meet. Raymond is the track announcer and doubles as track man for the Morning Telegraph, New York racing daily. Walter also called the local races several years ago.

Del Flanagan 6-5 Favorite Over Bahama

CHICAGO (A)—Del Flanagan of St. Paul, who says he has added a new punch to his ring tactics, is a 6-5 favorite to defeat sturdy Yama Bahama of the West Indies tonight.

The 10-round middleweight scrap will be televised and broadcast nationally (ABC, 10 p. m., EDT) at Chicago Stadium.

Flanagan, who has beaten some of the best in the welterweight and middleweight divisions in his 101 fights, outpunched Tiger Jones in a TV thriller at St. Paul in August and has won five of his last six outings. Kid Gavilan and Ramon Fuentes have been among his victims. He dropped a split decision to Gil Turner.

Flanagan admits there was a time when he was thinking of quitting the ring.

"Although I fought and beat outstanding contenders in both divisions, I drew criticism for being a boxer and not a slugger," said Flanagan. "They said I didn't make interesting fights. I couldn't get a break. Then Bernie Glickman talked me out of quitting and became my manager. He said I had the ability to beat them all, but that I should be a clever boxer. He told me to fight flat-footed and punch more. I gave it a whirl and have been amazed at the results."

Flanagan has won 85 fights, 33 of them by kayos. He has lost 14 and had 2 draws.

The rugged Bahama has shown signs of promise. He lists Turner, Carlo Sarlo, Jimmy Martinez and Hardy Smallwood among his 44 victims. He has seven losses, one to Turner in a return bout, and two draws.

The five-point maximum system will be used to score the fight.

'Sugar' Rebuked By Athletic Body

NEW YORK (A)—Sugar Ray Robinson's testimony that he never had received a direct offer of a bribe to throw a fight got him off with a mild rebuke by the New York State Athletic Commission.

The hearing was called yesterday to inquire into published reports quoting Robinson that he had been approached. He said that his remarks probably were misunderstood, that many "cracks" were made to him during his career.

Also testifying before the commission, headed by Chairman Julius Hoffman, were two sports writers—Murray Rose of The Associated Press and Harold Weissman of the New York Daily Mirror. Both testified that they were at a press conference on Sept. 20 in which Robinson said he had received bribe offers but did not report them.

A portion of a story by Joe Nichols in the New York Times, who also was at the press conference, was read. Nichols wrote that Robinson said he had received bribe offers early in his career.

"There is an apparent difference of interpretation of what Robinson is alleged to have said and what he says now," observed Hoffman.

Then he admonished Robinson to be careful of making statements that might be misinterpreted.

Dixie Wonder Teams Tangle Over Weekend

By The Associated Press

Southern Conference football has produced four "surprises" in the early stages of the 1957 season but only two of them are likely to be eligible for that label after Saturday.

The teams are VMI, Davidson, The Citadel and Richmond. What happens Saturday is that they start doing battle with each other, VMI going to Richmond and The Citadel offering Davidson its first home test.

Each Game Struggle

Among them, this foursome has won six games, tied two and lost just one. They've rolled up 173 points—Richmond alone has scored 87—while limiting their combined opposition to only 54.

Each game promises to be a struggle waged principally in the air. VMI (11-0-1) puts a large store by the passing of Duke Johnson.

Richmond (2-1-0) has the league's No. 2 passer in Jerry Landis. The Citadel (1-0-1) moves largely on the pitching arm of Bob Schwarze, who has tossed for 248 yards in two games, and Davidson (2-0-0) on the passing of its sophomore sensation, Charlie Benson.

The Citadel, fresh from its 13-6 upset of George Washington last week, can take at least a temporary hold on first place in the conference standings if the Bulldogs whip Davidson. But Coach Eddie Teague says his team is not in any danger of overconfidence. "They know they have a tough game coming up."

Long Citadel Workout

For a change, there were no injured players in the Bulldog camp yesterday and Teague put the squad through a long and rugged practice. He said he was "happy at their attitude" and pleased at their showing.

Davidson, meantime, concentrated on defense in a workout that lasted almost until midnight on a soggy field. Coach Bill Dole showed the Wildcats movies of their 19-6 win over East Carolina and pointed out errors.

VMI also gave attention to defense in a brief contact drill with the freshmen running Richmond, plays against the varsity. Afterward, the Keydels had a general review of their offense.

Richmond also stressed defense. The Spiders had to work indoors because of rain.

Cats To Seek First Win In Friday Joust

The Potomac State Calamonts got down to business Monday with a two-hour scrimmage in preparation for their game to be played Friday at Keyser with the strong Salem Tigers.

The Cats will have their work cut out for them if they are to get into the win column for the first time this year. Last year's West Virginia Conference champs from West Liberty nosed out Salem by one point, 47-61, in New Martinsville.

Potomac coach "Horse" Lough saw the game Saturday night and came away impressed, remarking today that Salem has the best team it has had for years.

"The Tigers are not as large as in former years, but they are well conditioned and fast, and showed a well-balanced attack of fast running plays and a fine passing attack," Lough declared. "The passing of Hartberger to Burk and the hard hit to stop and Dick Maxwell is a hard running full back that will not allow the defense to become over-balanced on stopping passes."

The Calamonts were badly crippled, largely because of a bad scheduling situation, in meeting the strong West Virginia Tech team five days after their opener with Glenville. However, an open date has allowed the injuries to heal and herring accidents this week should be in good shape Friday.

The Calamonts can start a sophomore backfield but must depend on a freshman line which has been somewhat unsteady in the first two games but is rounding into shape. Lough feels that the team will give a good account of itself for the rest of the year. The kick-off will be at 2 p. m. Friday, daylight time.

Carolina's Coker 'Soph of Week'

RALEIGH, N. C. (A)—Sophomore football stars cavorted all over the place last Saturday when North Carolina's hitherto hapless Tar Heels humbled Clemson's high and mighty Tigers.

Clemson's sophs had been more widely advertised, but when the chips were down they were outshone by Coach Jim Tatum's youngsters.

The standard of the North Carolina sophs was Don Coker who rates the nod as this week's Associated Press "Sophomore of the Week."

Coker, a 6-1, 196-pounder from Reidsville, N. C., played a part in three of the Tar Heel scoring drives. He bulled three yards for a first down in a fourth and one situation in the second North Carolina touchdown drive, caught a 12-yard pass the third time the Tar Heels moved goalward, and he scored the final touchdown on a nine-yard sprint. In all, Coker gained 25 yards in 5 tries.

Manager's Manger

Jockey Must Be Dead Game To Have Long Riding Career

(News, views, anecdotes and general information about the breeding and racing of thoroughbreds, straight from the feed box of the general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association.)

BY HARRY J. BARTON

A lot of people have a hand in staging a horse race. But when the horses enter the track their destinies are in the hands of pint-sized men or boys wearing loud silk shirts.

The Cumberland Fair Association runs the Fairgo track; the racing Commission, stewards, placing judges, starter, racing secretary, clerk of the scales, paddock judge, timer, patrol, veterinarian—all these run the races; and the jockeys run the horses.

The jockey's job sounds simple. It is up to him to get the most out of his mount and bring him in a winner.

But he has a rough life. For all his slight build, he must be tough as wire, strong in the arms, legs and back, capable of guiding heavy-headed horses through a jam on the turn or in the pell-mell rush of the stretch.

He must be a dead game little guy, or he won't last long. There's no room for fear on a race track.

Just stand along the inside rail as the field thunders by, the horses pounding and the jockeys leaping—and judge for yourself whether or not it takes guts to be in the thick of a charge for the wire.

Nobody becomes a jockey overnight. Most of the kids who want to ride come from the country, or scattered country towns. But many of them are city boys, who never saw a horse until they were possessed of the desire to ride.

They start as stable boys. They carry water, clean out stalls, polish tack, walk hot horses that have been worked or raced to cool them out, then rub, water and feed them.

He starts riding as an apprentice, after he has served as an exercise boy and learned the fundamentals of horsemanship—hands, seat, judgment and pace. As an apprentice his pay is low, but when he becomes a full-fledged jockey his income goes up sharply.

At Cumberland, jockeys get $15 and $16 a mount. For a win they receive from $35 to $100; second, $20 to $25; and third, $19 to $21.

But, as in every other profession, as the pay goes up, the expenses go up too. The jockey must buy all his equipment, except his blouse and cap. He has to have skull cap, boots, pants, socks, whip, spurs, saddles, saddle cloths, lead pads, girth and surcingle.

Most jockeys have several pairs of boots and three saddles—

NBA Vacates Basilio's Title

MILWAUKEE (A)—The National Boxing Assn. today vacated the welterweight title of Carmen Basilio, the new middleweight ruler, and then pronounced him "Boxer of the Month."

Fred J. Saddy, chairman of the NBA's ratings committee said it was customary for a champion moving up to a higher division, as Basilio has done, to surrender his old title.

But, in Basilio's case, "out of consideration for his past reputation as a boxer of integrity and courage," Saddy said the NBA gave him 10 days to make up his mind. The 10-day period expired today with no word from Basilio.

Saddy said.

Basilio, 30-year-old former onion farmer from Syracuse, N. Y., won "Boxer of the Month" designation in the NBA's October ratings for his split decision victory over Sugar Ray Robinson in their middleweight title bout at New York Sept. 23. The defeat dropped the 37-year-old Robinson to the No. 1 contender's slot.

In order to stir up interest in the welterweight division, Saddy said, the NBA would like Tony DeMarco, Isaac Logart, Vince Martinez and Gil Turner, the four leading contenders, to compete in a tournament leading to a new champion.

Top American Golfers Land For Ryder Cup

LINDRICK, England (A) — The top players of American professional golf have arrived here for the Ryder Cup—and that means as much excitement in this north of England village as the World Series does in Milwaukee.

Maybe Britain has won the Ryder Cup only twice in 11 tries. Maybe the last time was 24 years ago. Maybe the bookies don't give a candle for Britain's chances this time.

But it is the first time the match has gone on at this little known course bordering Yorkshire, Derbyshire and Nottinghamshire. So golfers around here and the thousands from neighboring towns and villages mean to see the Yanks in action.

Start Friday
Officials forecast that crowds will average 10,000 a day for the two-day match starting Friday. Hotel keepers in a 100 square mile area of Lindrick forecast the crowds may be even bigger.

"There is not a room to be had for miles — all because of the Ryder Cup," one hotelman said. American captain Jack Burke of Belaire, Tex., praised the texture of the grass on the fairways of the par 34-36-70 Lindrick course and said:

"It's just great to play on such a well kept course." Ed Furgol of Miami Shores, Fla., 1954 American Open champion said:

"Some say it's short—but it is a very exciting test of golf that calls for a lot of finesse. It compares very much with the Merion course in Pennsylvania where we played our Open in 1950."

Greens Tricky
"It's short, but it does not play that way," reigning American Open champion Dick Mayer said. "The greens are very tricky to read, and every hole is an interesting one."

The outward nine holes stretch 3,128 yards and the inward nine 3,412 yards. The course is set in high land with many patches of golden gorse. The rough has been allowed to grow making many of the fairways narrow where a wild drive means trouble. The last hole is a testing short one of 200 yards and well bunkered about the green.

The rival captains—Burke and Britain's Dai Rees—planned final tryouts in Scotch foursomes today before announcing their pairings for Friday's four matches.

The Scotch foursomes—the two players on each team take alternate swipes on the ball—will be played Friday. The eight singles will be decided Saturday.

Corum Predicts Burdette Will Be Series Mound Star

By BILL CORUM

NEW YORK—(INS)—Three top pitchers are enough to win any world series. Particularly one with a guaranteed off-day between the second and third games, as in the case this year.

I believe the Braves have three top pitchers in Warren Spahn, Bob Buhl and Lew Burdette and their records strongly bear out that opinion.

The few Yankees with whom I've talked about the series feel that Spahn and Buhl will be most dangerous to their cause. The guess here is that it will be Burdette.

Here's why I think Burdette might emerge from this series as its pitching star. It shouldn't be necessary to say that Lew may actually emerge as the goat.

Reason Simple
And the reason is simple to me, at any rate. It's my conviction that no player, Frisch, Musial, Snider, Berra, DiMaggio (either of two), Gehrig, or even the greatest of 'em all, Ruth, could bat in a series without having some feeling of pressure.

New Bob Turley may have pitched better games than the four-hitter he pitched against Clem Labine last year and lost. He'd know. I don't. It was the best I ever saw him pitch.

Save for Don Larsen's no-hitter, it was for sure the best pitched game of last year's series. Could even have been the game that made big Bob a great big league pitcher.

When fear of his control doesn't gnaw him, Turley is, at any rate, real tough. Guessing again, I'd make him Stengel's ace in the series, except that speed is his liability.

Recalls Newk's Fast Ball
Hear this. Maybe sometime somewhere, a man threw a baseball harder and faster than Don Newcombe at the beginning of the seventh game last fall. But I saw Johnson at his best and fastest, Vance (fast as he was, really a curve-ball pitcher), Dean, Jerome, and Moose Grove, the old "Lonacning Leftie" and other fireballers.

I never saw a man throw harder than Newcombe that day. But the Yanks knew it was coming and he got "moderated." Turley was superb, absolutely, in his game. Yet, like Newcombe, he lost.

In golf, in any sport, isn't it true that you swing with all your might under pressure? And doesn't that make in baseball?

Keyser Jayvees
Win Over Romney
Keyser High School's football jayvees took a five-touchdown lead in the first three periods, then coasted to a 31-14 victory over the Romney reserves yesterday on the winners' field. The win was the second of the season for the Baby Tornado.

George Miller tallied two of the Tornado touchdowns, one on a 53-yard run and the other on a 13-yard scamper. The winners made 14 first downs to 10 and gained 261 yards to 165.

Francis Sidley launched Keyser's touchdown parade in the opening period by scoring on a 20-yard run. George Miller raced 63 yards for the second tally and John Barger toled the sixth-pointers in the second period to give the home team an 18-0 lead at intermission.

Fred Clark, son of the Keyser varsity coach, went over from the 12 and Miller later scored from the 13 in the third stanza. Sidley kicked the point after Clark's td.

Romney was blanked until the final quarter when A. D. Holt smashed over from three and the Romney quarterback passed to E. D. Saville for the point. A pass, A. D. Holt to Gary Short, covering 32 yards, produced the visitors' final six-pointer. Short ran the point.

Keyser has beaten Ridgeley and Romney and lost to Northern High of Garrett County.

Dodgers Get Extension On Future Plans

By FRED DE LUCA

NEW YORK (INS) — The Brooklyn Dodgers, who often are World Series contestants at this time of the year, instead will sweat out the next two weeks to see if their 1958 home will be Los Angeles.

The original timetable called on the Dodgers to announce their intentions for 1958 no later than yesterday, but National League owners granted Brooklyn an extension to Oct. 15.

The extension was voted unanimously after league president Warren Giles read a telegram from Los Angeles mayor Norris Poulson claiming the City Council would ratify the move at its next meeting.

Two-Thirds Vote Needed
At the first council meeting, a unanimous vote was required, but next Monday, only a two-thirds vote of the 15-member council will be needed to pass the ordinance to move the Dodgers West.

Other important actions taken yesterday in a series of separate and joint league meetings, included notice of intent filed by the New York Giants to acquire the San Francisco territory and the postponing of action on New York territorial rights.

Giants president Horace Stoneham filed his notice of intent with baseball commissioner Ford Frick early yesterday.

The Giant proxy indicated he had come to a tentative financial agreement with the Boston Red Sox for purpose of the American League team's San Francisco farm club. Stoneham also must settle with the Pacific Coast League.

Yanks Rule Roost
A joint league meeting, presided over by Frick, decided to delay any decision on New York territorial rights until the next joint meeting which will be held in Colorado Springs, Colo., Dec. 4.

Earlier, the American League had filed a proposal with Frick which, in the event of the departure of both the Giants and the Dodgers, would make only Brooklyn available to any new NL club that might want to enter New York.

The resolution would give the Yankees exclusive domain over the city's other four boroughs—the Bronx, Queens, Manhattan and Richmond.

Queens is considered as the likeliest spot in which any incoming club could receive city assistance in building a new stadium.

The extension of time granted to the Dodgers came on a motion offered by Pittsburgh's John Galbreath.

In addition, the league, on a motion by Milwaukee's Lou Perini, made it easier for future franchise shifts by lowering the need for a unanimous eight to six.

Ratings Show Big Scores On Grid Weekend

BY DICK DUNKEL

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (Special)—On the adding machines, Orville, They're gonna run up some big scores this week.

Oklahoma's Sooners and their red hot rivals for the No. 1 college football spot will be out to impress the constituents. And, according to the Power Index, it will be Black Saturday for their opponents.

45-Point Difference
The Sooners themselves will stack their top rating of 12.3 against Iowa State's 78.8. That's a difference of 45 points, and Oklahoma will have to win by more than that if its rating is to rise.

Other leaders anxious to overhaul the Sooners, also have set some king-sized pars for themselves, as follows:

No. 2 Michigan State, 34 over California. No. 3 Iowa, 27 over Wash., State. No. 4 Minnesota, 34 over Purdue. No. 5 Oregon State, 25 over Northwestern. No. 6 Auburn, 42 over Chattanooga. And No. 7 N. C. State, 30 over Clemson.

78.5 Per Cent Correct
The higher rating team has won in 78.5 per cent of the games, not counting ties, covered by the Power Index to date.

In other big games of the coming weekend, the rating differences—reflecting the actual record and not guessing at the future—are as follows:

Friday Night
Pittsburgh 7 over So. California.

Saturday
EAST—Army 18 over Penn State. Dartmouth 4 over Penn. Princeton 2 over Columbia. Syracuse 1 over Boston U. Villanova 20 over Fla. State. Yale 28 over Brown.

MIDWEST — Colorado 6 over Kansas. Houston 10 over Cincinnati. Illinois 26 over Colgate. Kansas State 19 over Nebraska. Michigan 24 over Georgia. Notre Dame 30 over Indiana. Wisconsin 5 over W. Virginia. Texas A & M 8 over Missouri.

SOUTH — Arkansas 1 over TCU. Baylor 9 over Miami, Fla. Duke 34 over Maryland. Florida 10 over Kentucky. LSU 24 over Texas Tech. Mississippi 16 over Hardin-Simmons. Navy 3 over North Carolina. Stanford 8 over Rice. Tennessee 18 over Miss. State. Texas 9 over S. Carolina. Vanderbilt 13 over Alabama.

FAR WEST—Ohio State 5 over Washington. UCLA 12 over Oregon.

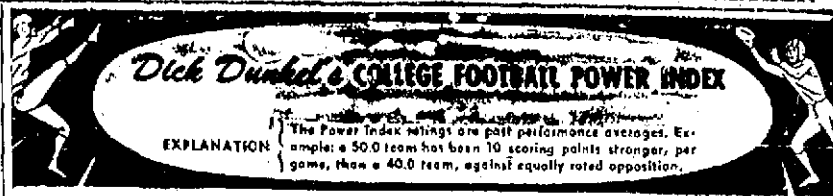

Hayes Knows Ways Of Staying On Top
COLUMBUS, O. — (NEA) — Woody Hayes' 28-7 Ohio State record against Big 10 opponents in six years includes 17 straight victories, an all-time record. The string began in 1954 and ended with a 5-0 loss to Iowa in the eighth game of 1956.

Only Michigan State, 0-1, holds an edge on Hayes' Buckeyes. Northwestern failed to win in six tries. Wisconsin lost five, tied one in six. Ohio State is 5-1-0 with Indiana, 4-1-1 with Illinois, 2-1 with Purdue, 3-2 with Iowa and 3-3 against Michigan.

Coach Hayes' Western Conference winning average is .757.

to the Dodgers came on a motion offered by Pittsburgh's John Galbreath.

In addition, the league, on a motion by Milwaukee's Lou Perini, made it easier for future franchise shifts by lowering the need for a unanimous eight to six.

Baptists Honor W. B. Orndorff At Westernport

WESTERNPORT—A "This Is Your Life" program in honor of Rev. William B. Orndorff was presented recently at First Baptist Church where he has served as pastor for 15 years. As Mr. and Mrs. Orndorff had been away on vacation for the past two weeks, the deacons and members of the congregation were able to keep the arrangements a complete surprise to him.

Joseph Rinehart presided over the program. Voices of Rev. Orndorff's five brothers and two sisters were heard over a loud speaker just before they appeared on the stage to exchange greetings with their brother.

Next appeared Mrs. Orndorff, who was teaching school at Dawson when she met Rev. Orndorff. Their daughters, Mrs. Miriam Templeton, of Alexandria, Va., and Mrs. Elaine Koch, of Oakland, were followed by their husbands, J. Milton Templeton and Herbert B. Koch, and two grandchildren, William Templeton and Kevin Koch.

Others presented were his only living aunt, Mrs. Flora Poland, of Shanks, W. Va.; one of his first school teachers, Mrs. Cora Kline, of Mountfield Junction, and J. Buford Cross, of Cumberland, one of his employees when he operated a store there.

The five churches which he served as pastor during his ministry were represented: Mt. Lake Park, Raymond G. Paugh; Ferndale, Harry McRobie; Deep Creek, Earl K. Harvey; Eckhart, John R. Watson and Westernport, Lee Miller.

Mrs. Leah Fazenbaker spoke in appreciation of the service broadcast by Rev. Orndorff over the radio, and Mrs. Virginia Ravenscroft of his ministry in general.

Rev. Randolph Keefe, pastor of Grace Baptist Church, Cumberland, praised Rev. Orndorff for the support of the projects his services as moderator of the Western District and as president of the Maryland Baptist Union Association.

Rev. Orndorff was born at Augusta, Hampshire County, W. Va., May 3, 1880, and moved with his parents to Burlington when he was eight years of age. After attending Mineral County schools he enrolled at the Philadelphia School of the Bible and later the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, where he was graduated. His marriage was solemnized July 8, 1925.

Mrs. Orndorff read congratulatory letters from Dr. Clifton C. Thomas, general secretary of the State Mission Board of the Baptist Union Association; Rev. Cornelius Davis of Second Baptist Church, Cumberland; Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Ledbetter, Bedford Road Church, Cumberland, and others.

During the afternoon service a money tree containing $200 was presented to Rev. Orndorff. A message was given to Mrs. Orndorff by her daughters.

At the morning service, Mrs. Howard Fazenbaker presented him with a basket of flowers which decorated the chancel. At the conclusion of the program, the guests and members of the congregation were invited to the church parsonage where refreshments were served.

Mrs. P. E. Berry presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Leah Fazenbaker, Mrs. Pearl Tinsley, Mrs. Geraldine Bartlett and Mrs. Mary Miller assisted in serving the guests.

The parsonage was recently purchased from the E. J. Roberts heirs and is now occupied by Rev. and Mrs. Orndorff. The parsonage is located on Philo Avenue across from the church. The driveway into the parsonage has been widened and a parking lot provided in the rear of the house.

Band Boosters Plan Meeting At Frostburg

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Myron Lehr, president of the Beall High Band Boosters, has announced that the first meeting of the school year will be held today in the school at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Lehr has appealed to all parents of both junior high and senior high bands to attend the meetings as parental help is sorely needed in the promotion of the bands. She pointed out that many parents make a sacrifice to provide children with a musical education and that through the band the children receive practical experience which adds to their musical knowledge. Parents may aid the bands through their attendance at the meetings and the support of the projects which the boosters will plan to carry out for the year, she added.

The Band Boosters are responsible, Mrs. Lehr said, for the uniforms worn by the band. Funds for these uniforms are being raised through projects carried out by the boosters, such as selling popcorn and other refreshments at athletic and other school events. A stand is operated at each football game under the grandstand where hot drinks and sandwiches are sold.

Parents have pointed out that the band not only performs at school affairs but also participates in community parades and celebrations. Therefore, it needs community support and especially the support of the parents of the school students.

Oakland Keeps Daylight Time
OAKLAND — Mayor Russell L. Smith of Oakland has corrected published reports that the Garrett County seat town will return to standard time on Sunday. He said the clocks won't be turned back until October 27.

It had been reported that Grantsville would stay on daylight time until October 27, but that Oakland would not.

Mayor Smith pointed out that the town council had agreed some time ago to remain on standard time through October if Allegany County and the Garrett County Board of Education did so.

He said the Garrett school board stayed on daylight time because about 250 children travel by bus to Allegany County schools and 50 others go to Elk Garden. Maintaining two bus schedules would have cost the county about $15,000, he said.

Oaklanders, along with Grantsville and Allegany County residents, will turn their clocks back an hour at 2 a.m. Sunday, October 27.

Mother's Club Election Set

FROSTBURG—Election of officers will take place at a meeting of the Hill Street Kindergarten Mothers Club today at 7:45 p.m. at the home of the teacher, Mrs. Emily Stewart, 142 Spring Street. Mrs. Harry Cook will preside.

Mrs. Ralph Haney and Mrs. Guy Mallow are co-hostesses. All mothers of kindergarten children are urged to attend.

The club will furnish the backing for the kindergarten project which meets in a basement room of Hill Street School. Formerly it met in one of the classrooms, but due to crowded conditions was forced to move recently. A large basement room was blocked off with volunteer labor laying the blocks, installing doors and doing the painting. Odd lots of asphalt tile were donated by local stores and were laid on the concrete floor. The entire project of furnishing and remodeling the room was done under the supervision of the club.

Recorder Feled
Mrs. Anna Quartucci, star recorder of the Women of the Moose, Chapter 221, was honored at the star recorders session held recently at the Moose, home here.

Chapters from Cumberland and Meyersdale were represented and exemplified the ritual ceremony. The address of welcome was given by Goldie Huston and the response was delivered by Mrs. Marjorie Mulligan, senior regent of Cumberland.

Mrs. Mary Humberton, star recorder of the Cumberland chapter, was guest speaker. She used as her topic the star recorders scholarship fund at Moosheart.

During the session, co-workers held open discussion of chapter development and harmony. Refreshments were served by Anna Quartucci and her committee.

Following the meeting Mrs. Isabel Young, Cumberland, was presented the registration prize.

Baseball - Happy Cuba To Get Series

By JACK O'BRIAN
NEW YORK—(INS)—The impact of Al Jolson and Eddie Cantor on Eddie Fisher apparently will have a nagging continuance, and last night, in his second half of the George Gobel-Fisher Tuesday night show, he made his customary mistake of trying to keep both of their past and rooster memories alive, if not lively.

Debbie Reynolds is a tremendously talented little lassie and her performance had case, warm wit and impish drive her sluggish spouse could use.

George Gobel's contribution while limited inasmuch as he saves himself for the big game—his own alternating Tuesday evening show—was amusing and entirely professional.

There were several spots where the show came very much alive, mostly involving Debbie, and Mike Todd was a useful second banana.

color (for them as has it) was superb over at our color set.

Kitty Carlisle's elaborately grand, chic, diva manner will yet do her in.

City boy Walter Winchell's TV filmed drama series starts tonight (ABC-TV) with an episode called "Country Boy."

Baseball-happy Cuba gets the World Series "live" via the miraculous "scatter" technique in which the TV signal is broken and flung toward Cuba, and there collected and reconstructed.

The real lawyers on CBS-TV's afternoon courtroom fiasco, "The Verdict Is Yours," had to join AFTRA, the air actors' union.

Bob Hope's son Tony will play a role in Pop's Oct. 6 NBC premiere—as a slawert MP dragging the elder ski nose away in a Cuban scene.

After all that patriotic campaign to keep "West Point" on the TV air, it turns out the campaign was merely to keep its old reruns feeling solvent along.

Perlin Husky's Kraft Theatre acting won him a three-picture Paramount pact.

ARB says "Climax" was most-viewed in Sept.; Nielsen says Gunsmoke; Trendex says the Miss America mishmash.

In N. Y. City, Pulse says we preferred Studio One.

Home workshops, with the increase of "do it yourself" fans using power tools, are becoming as dangerous for eye accidents as industrial plants. The National Society for Prevention of Blindness urges wearing of eye protection in home workshops.

Hand will produce a no-trump game.

North's two heart response was the JTB and as such it showed his spade suit.

South made his two spade bid and then North went to two no-trump. This bid showed just what he had. Eight or nine points, a good spade suit and a hand that could play at no-trump.

With only sixteen points South might well have passed this bid but South was well acquainted with the fact that it was worth while to bid and make a game. He knew that his side could start with at least five spade tricks and he decided to gamble that he could gather in four tricks in the other suits.

The way the cards lay there was no defense against three no-trump but West made things particularly easy when he opened clubs. South's ten spot won the first trick and all he had to do was to knock out the ace of diamonds to make five spades, two diamonds and two clubs for his contract.

It is interesting to note that any reasonable defense would have beaten four spades. Even with a club opening all that would be necessary was that East should lead a second club as soon as he got the lead with a heart and then put his partner in with the ace of diamonds when he won the second heart.

Of course, North and South might well have reached three no-trump without the JTB. The bid just made it easy for them to get there.

Eisenhower's Meeting With Governors Fraught With Excitement To Reporters, Nation

By ED CREAGH
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is no stranger to excitement, but it hasn't seen lately an episode like yesterday's.

The lobby was jammed with past. The noise level rose to a pitch just short of a shriek. Then a door opened and the reporters and cameramen who were posted at the side door, just brought you the story surged into the office of press secretary James C. Hagerty. Surged? They all but tumbled in. Once in, they stood, sat and perched on bookcases.

Minutes, then hours dragged. Hagerty stood behind his desk, arms folded, smiling the faint smile that signals to White House veterans: this is a big story, men.

It was, too.

The Southern governors telegraphed it also. While-carnationed Luther Hodges of North Carolina fingered a copy of the joint statement by the White House and the governors. The mobile features of Maryland's Theodore H. McKeldin were in constant motion. Florida's law and order and not to interfere prematurely gray Leroy Collins and Tennessee's equally hand-some Frank Clement showed similar eagerness.

Hagerty had the privilege of announcing the news, as spokesman for President Eisenhower. It meant: If Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus would pledge to maintain law and order and not to interfere with federal court orders, Eisenhower would pull U.S. troops out of Little Rock. The governors said Faubus was ready to make such a pledge.

It looked as if the gravest integration crisis to date might be peacefully resolved.

And then the bottom began to fall out.

First, Faubus' "assurance" came through from Little Rock. He said he never intended to obstruct the orders of the federal courts—although a U.S. court has accused him of doing just that. He said he was prepared "as I have always been" to maintain law and order—for all that Eisenhower has indirectly blamed him for stirring up mob violence.

"I now declare," said the governor, "that upon withdrawal of federal troops, I will again assume full responsibility . . . for the maintenance of law and order, and that the orders of the federal courts will not be obstructed by me."

There were more hours of wait. (Continued on Page 24)
